'To All

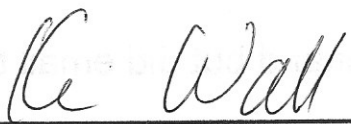

Some good news. Just heard from my contact at The Post Office that the new Lynton Post Office Service at Costcutter should be opening on 19th September.

So, despite all the doom-mongers saying that everything is closing, and will never reopen, we have now saved the Post Office service and we still have a functioning Health Centre. Initial feedback from those who have used the Health Centre recently seems positive, although there were apparently some IT issues when they merged the two systems, and there was a period immediately after the last bank holiday when staff absence (due to illness) caused some delays that week.

Kind regards

John'
